Speaking of the Spanish fleet and the seascalled discontinuous description of the Control of night for Clark, who was identified at time he assaulted Miss Priest by her ittle sister. No success attended efforts, and early this morning Sheriff Fulgham started out with a posse, and before 9 o'clock had captured Clark on Beaver Dam Creek, ten miles from Huntsville. He was soon landed in jail, and by o'clock the news of the prisoner's capture was heralded to all parts of the city mob composed of mill operatives and men of all callings was soon formed and a time apparently waiting for a leader.

Appealed to Governor.

Sheriff Fulgham, seeing that he had a desperate crowd to combat, wired Gov. Johnston the facts in the case. The gov-ernor responded to the effect that he had ordered the militia at Birmingham, Montgomery, and Decatur to proceed with all haste to the scene. The sheriff then tele-phoned Judge S. M. Stewart and asked for an immediate trial of the negro, and the judge replied soon after that he had arranged for a special session of court at 3 o'clock before Judge H. C. Speake.

The mob by this time had assumed ng proportions, and the sheriff, thinking to quiet the storm, appeared at a window and announced that a special trial had been arranged for the prisoner, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This was and the cry "Revenge!" went up.
The outer door to the jail, a wooder barrier, was soon battered down, and gained entrance to the first floor. Here they encountered the sheriff's wife, who pleaded with them to refrain from violence and let the law take its course. Sheriff Fulgham, however, on hearing the door being forced, retreated with his prisoner to the third floor, where he locked himself in with Clark. The mob then stopped to devise ways and means of securing the prisoner without doing harm to the sheriff, who is a great favorite here. A dozen times the sheriff, as he appeared at the window waving his hands to the mob to go away, could have been shot, but the lynchers chose strategy as the most effective way out of the difficulty.

THE INTERNATIONAL BALANCE.

Europe Takes Gold of Us Now Because She Needs It and We Do Not.

From the New York Times.

To the Editor of the New York Times: In your issue of the 18th you state that the excess of exports over imports into the United States for six years ended Inc. 20, 1909. for six years ended June 30, 1900, was over $2,000,000,000. Yesterday you stated that gold exports on Thursday would probably reach $4,000,000. Will you kindly state how foreign nations have paid us the enormous sum due to us for excess of exports, and explain how it can possibly come about that we are sending gold abroad? SILAS TUTTLE.

The largest single item in the payment account is undoubtedly the return to us of American securities sold by foreign investors, who since the silver scare of 1893 and the rise of Bryanism have not felt that either their interest or their principal was quite safe.

Another large contribution to the balancing of the account is made by American visitors to Europe. They carry let-ters of credit drawn on European banking houses. The money they spend is a debit entry in the account with the United States, diminishing by just that much the sum owing to us on account of our export balance.

The cost of carrying the merchandise trade this money goes chiefly to foreign shipowners. All that part of this charge which is paid by us enters into the ac-count as an offset to the merchandise eredit balance. In recent years Europe has become large borrower of American money. If the money rate hap-pens to be low here and higher in London or elsewhere in Europe, the banker loans the money out for what interest he can get over there. There is reason to believe that the amount of American money loaned in London has during the past two or three years been very large.

What these various items amount to is matter of conjecture. If we accept the usual estimates the account would stand ike this for a period of six years during which our export surplus has amounted to over $2,000,000,000: American securities returned Money spent by American travelers.....

...$1,687,000,00 Total..... This leaves some three hundred millions be accounted for, and we must assume as to the understanding that was arrived that a good part of that sum is still owed to us in London and other capitals in Europe where it is at interest. Europe takes gold of us now because she needs it and is willing to pay for its use.
